The Corps of Engineers at Gavins Point Project has partnered with the National Park Service to operate the Lewis and Clark Visitor Center. The partnership enables the Corps and Park Service staff to work together at this Class A visitor center to provide quality environmental education and outreach programs and activities, extend hours of operation, and enhance the O&M (Operations and Maintenance) of visitor center facilities and exhibits that promote both partners. The two agencies work together to plan strategies and implement activities related to promoting good environmental stewardship at Gavins Point Project and the Missouri National Recreation River. This partnership allows the opportunity to pursue challenge cost share agreements, grants and other funding opportunities and agreements for the purpose of promoting initiatives that serve to educate the public more efficiently and effectively.
