Two Programs to Bring Wounded Warriors to Work at Your Project

- Goals – Help in recuperation of wounded warriors by putting them to work; help in transition back to active duty or in the separation from the Army; allow federal agencies to help in the process
 - Operation Warfighter (OWF)
 - DoD program that includes all branches of military
 - Warriors in Transition Program (WTC)
 - ARMY program

US Army Corps

OWF Program Objectives

Operation Warfighter: DoD internship program that places wounded, ill, and injured Service members in supportive work settings that:

Positively impact the recuperation process through the return to work.

Help participants get ready to return to duty or separate from the military.

Help Federal government agencies to better understand the skill sets and challenges of transitioning wounded, ill and injured Service members.

Internship Overview

Service members are matched with assignments that consider their interests and utilize their skills, thereby creating productive internships beneficial to the participant and the employer.

Employer pool is limited to Federal agencies. Salaries are paid by DoD.

DoD will provide necessary security clearances.

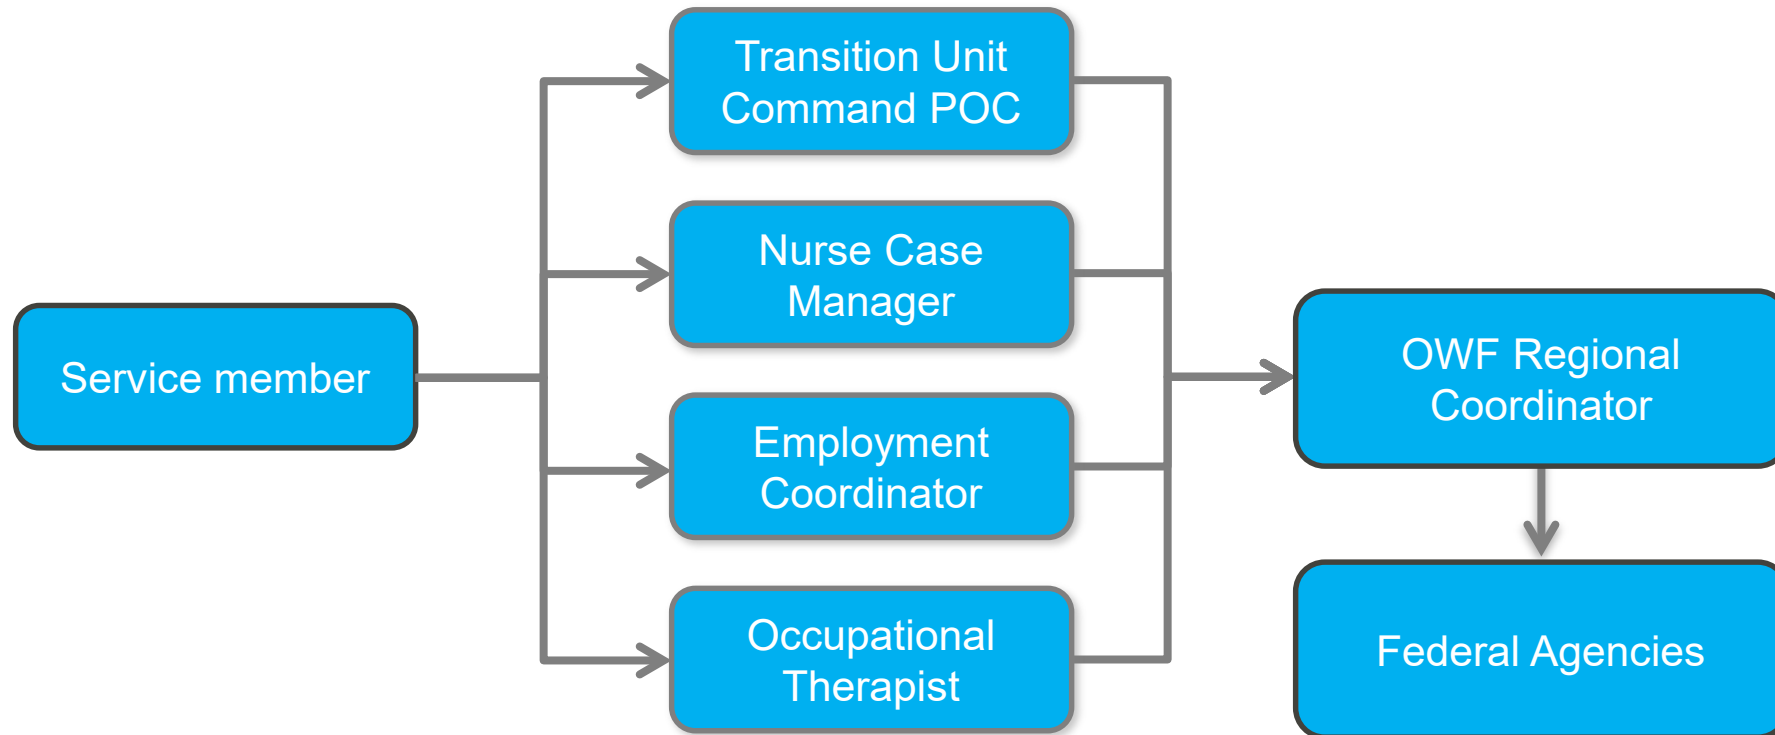

DoD will assist in facilitating transportation.

OWF Partners with the DoD Computer and Electronics Accommodations Program (CAP) to provide participants' CAC/ computer access

Medical Clearance Process

Each Service member must be determined to be medically ready to participate in OWF and under no circumstance will internship assignments interfere with a participant's medical profile or adversely affect recuperation.

US Army Corps
of Engineers®

Benefits for Service Members

- Gives transitioning Service members a vision to the future.
- Builds their resumes
- Develops job skills, benefiting from both formal and on-the-job training opportunities
- Valuable federal government work experience
- Demonstrates to participants that skills obtained in the military are valued and transferable into civilian employment.
- For Service members who will return to duty, the program enables them to maintain their skill sets and provides the opportunity for additional training and experience that can subsequently benefit the military.

US Army Corps
of Engineers®

Benefits for Employer

- Demonstrate support for the military service and sacrifices of wounded, ill, injured Service members.
- Access to the talent, dedication, and considerable military and non-military skills of participants.
- A vehicle for the permanent recruitment of transitioning Service members

Successful Outcomes

- Many agencies have hired wounded warriors into permanent positions as they “graduate” from OWF and transition out of the military.
- Many participants have indicated that OWF, as a wellness activity, restored a sense of normalcy and eased the transition back to work.
- Not just about employment – Placing wounded, ill and injured Service members in supportive work settings outside of the hospital environment positively impacts the recuperation process.

Warrior In Transition Program - ARMY

Warrior Transition Battalions (WTBs)

- More intensive multi-complex medical treatment
- Treatment takes place at major military treatment installations
- Focus on healing to transition back to the Army or to civilian status
- WTUs provide personal support to wounded Soldiers who require at least six months of rehabilitative care and complex medical management.

Community Care Units (CCUs)

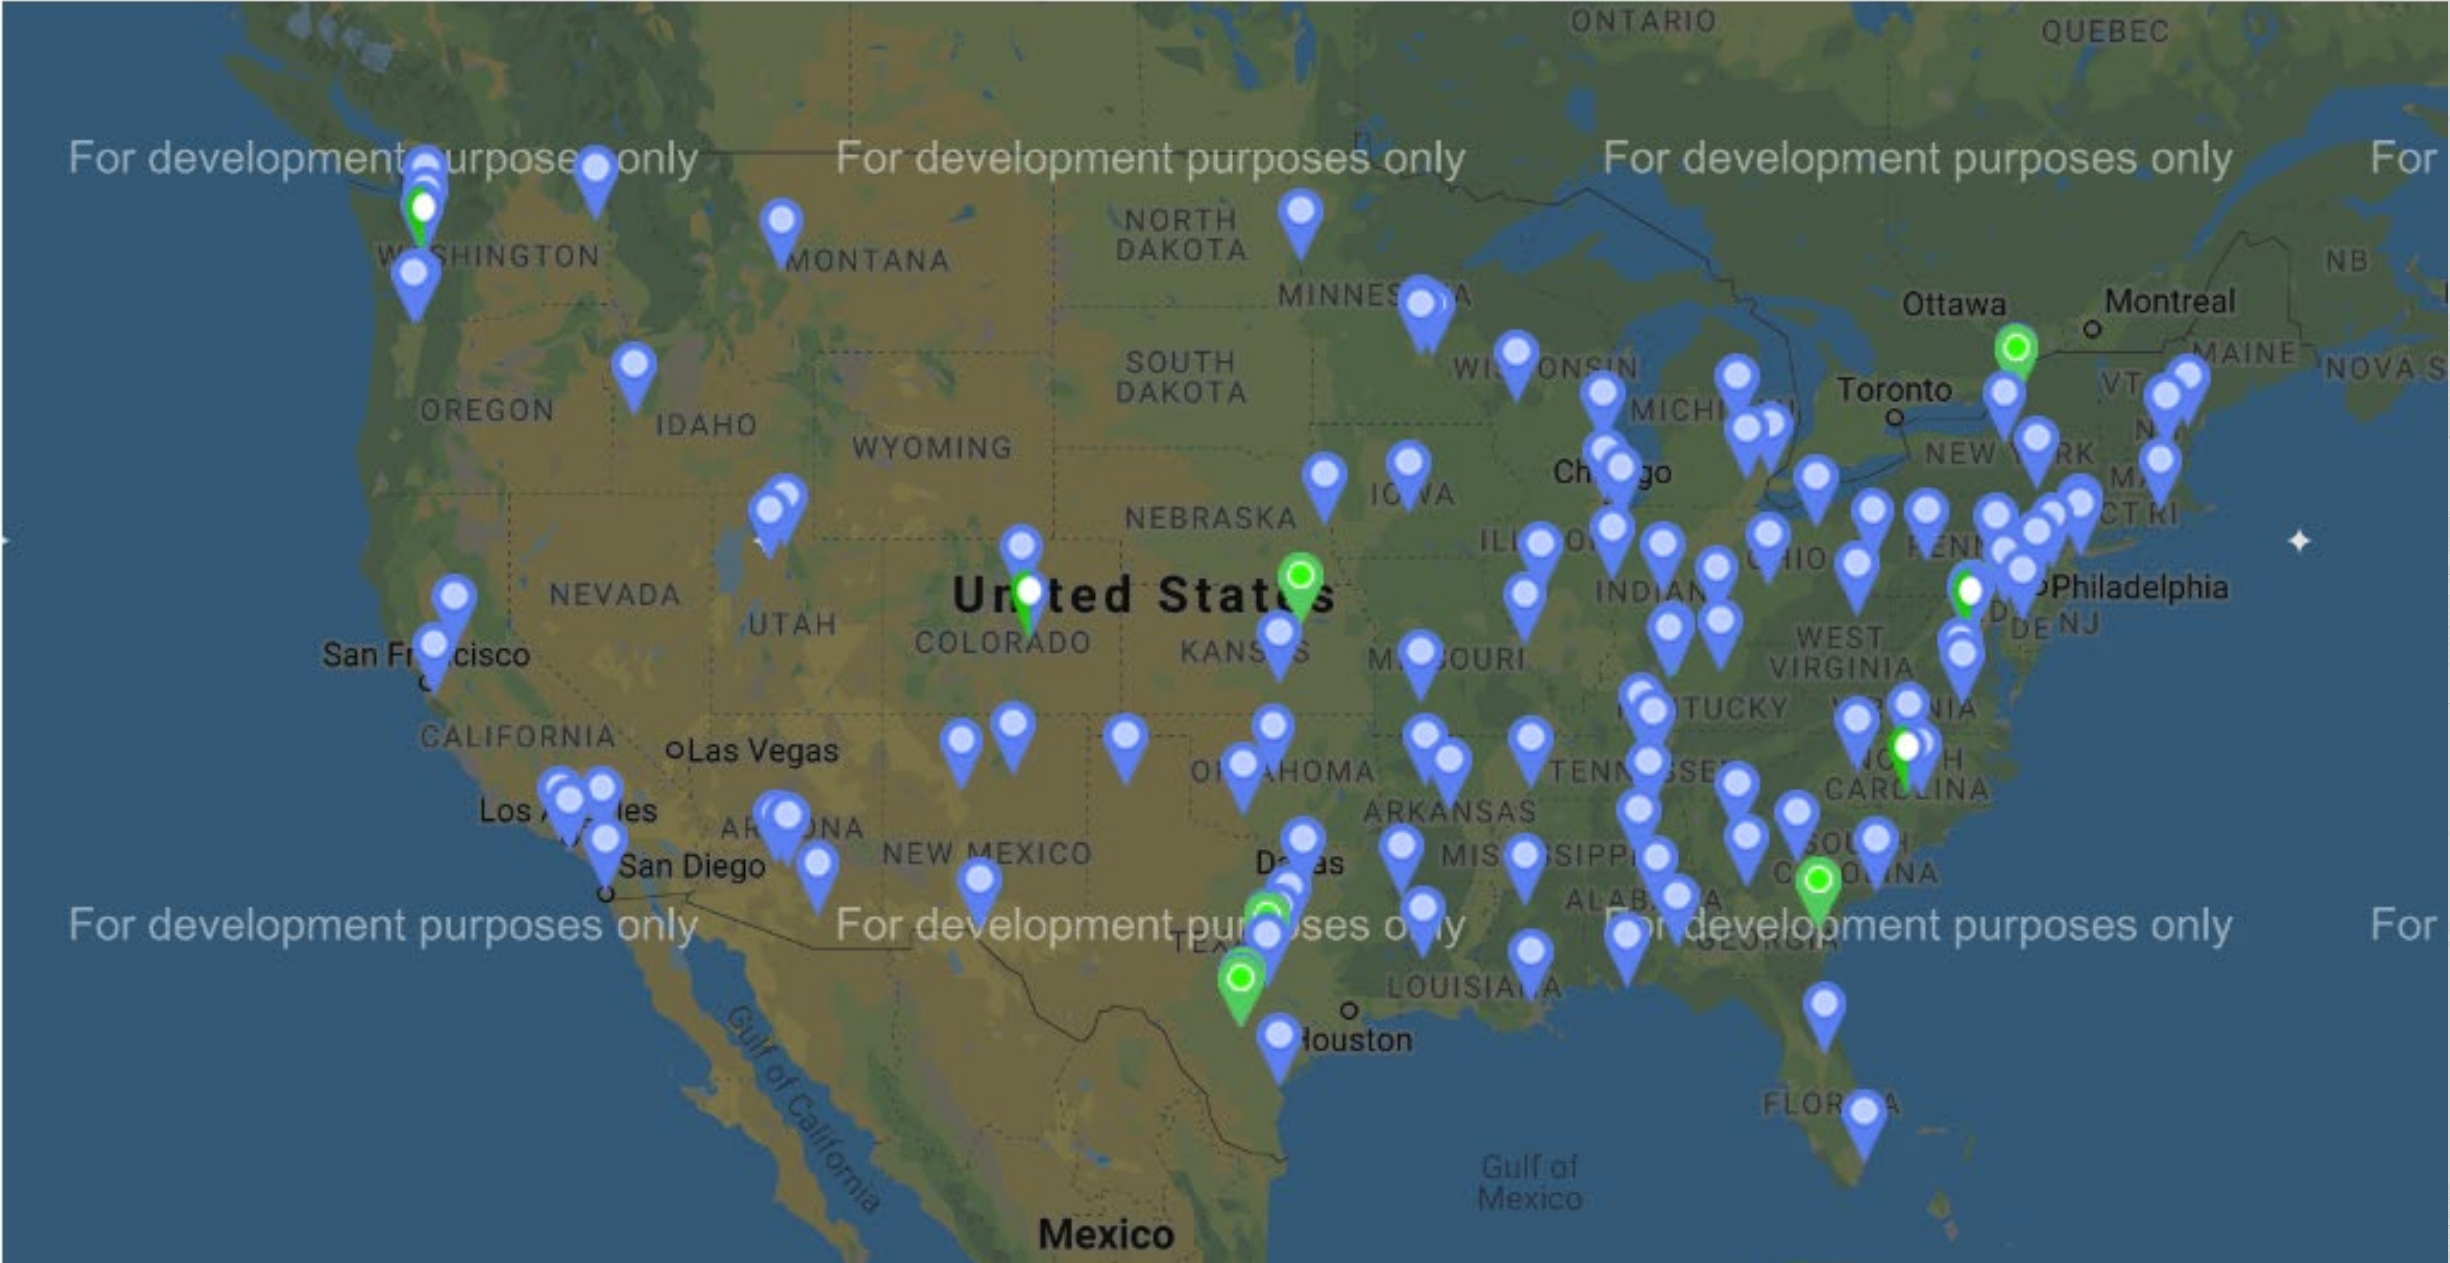

- Typically Army Reserve and National Guard Soldiers
- Do not need the day-to-day medical management provided by WTUs on Army installations
- Enables the Soldier to recover & transition closest to his/her personal support network or in his/her home

Military Partnerships

The Corps of Engineers is dedicated to encouraging the use of Corps recreation resources by the military and their families. Increased public awareness of Corps recreation programs, including increased awareness by Department of Defense and Armed Forces Commands, is a high priority.

Goal 2.4 of the Corps Recreation Strategic Plan is to “Strengthen relationships with military installations to meet the needs of both military families and the recreating public to foster use of Corps facilities by active duty, retired, and reserve military veterans and families.”

The Corps will contribute to the readiness and resilience of military members and their families through their participation in activities and programs at Corps lakes and rivers. The Corps will strengthen its unique relationship with the U.S. Armed Forces by expanding recreation programs and services for military members and their families. The Corps will promote safe and healthy outdoor recreation opportunities at Corps projects to all U.S. Armed Forces personnel, military families, and veterans.
